

Lunar Mission One: Poetry Competition

September 19, 2016 · Astronomy

Stewart McGown

McGown S. Lunar Mission One: Poetry Competition. Young Scientists Journal. 2016 Sep 19 [last modified: 2016 Oct 2]. Edition 1.

Abstract

Bring out your inner poet with a chance to win storage space on a lunar lander!

What is Lunar Mission One?

They are a non-profit organisation dedicated to putting a record of all life on earth on the moon, establishing a phenomenal legacy for everyone involved. Check out their website if you want to know more about them and get involved in their cause!

The Competition

They want you to send in an awesome poem about anything to with LM1. This could be about the history of life on earth or the colonisation of faraway galaxies. The rules are as follows:

- The poem must be LM1 related.
- You can only submit one poem.
- You must be 18 or under to participate!

Up for grabs are different size data storage spaces on the final LM1 lander itself!

- 1st place = $100 worth of data storage
- 2nd place = $50 worth of data storage
- 3rd place = $25 worth of data storage

If you want to be a part of this groundbreaking mission then you better get started on that space odyssey you always meant to get down on paper. More details for Schools can be found here.